

exerted on dies. Simulating the time-dependent deformation behavior clarifies the states of the materials in the dies and the mechanism of defect generation. This allows the fine-tuning of buster and blocker dies to prevent defect generation.

Optimized pre-form shapes serve to minimize the

